

Revitalizing Our Hometown: “We Will Be the Ones to Tell the Story”

Amid ongoing recovery efforts from the Great East Japan Earthquake and the Fukushima Daiichi Nuclear Power Station accident, students participated in a four-day journalism school, determined to share the current state of Fukushima’s journey toward revitalization. Through interviews with people working on revitalization efforts, they felt a strong surge of passion and energy. With the resolve that “it’s up to our younger generation to carry the message forward,” they deepened their understanding of how to convey stories effectively, learning about the mindset of a journalist, article writing, and newspaper editing.

Students brainstorming article content with guidance from their advisor

A unique presentation using body movements to share what they learned from their interviews

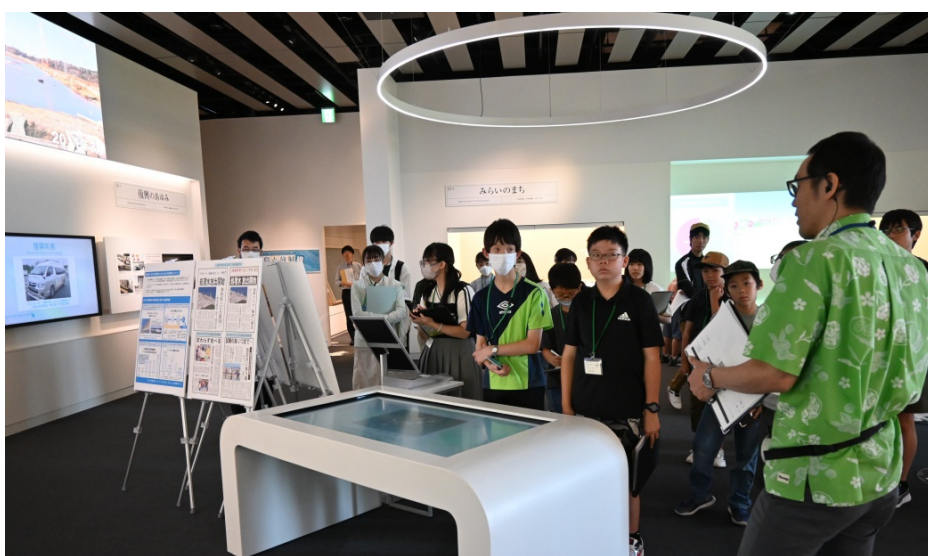

Interviewing about Obori Soma ware, taking notes with great focus

Exploring the Ultra Police Squad patrol car to deepen their understanding

Visiting Kusano Shrine, rebuilt after being swept away by the tsunami, and praying for the souls of the victims

Touring the Great East Japan Earthquake and Nuclear Disaster Memorial Museum, learning about events at the time of the disaster

Measuring radiation levels at the monitoring field inside Reprun Fukushima

Published by

We welcome your opinions and feedback!

Lifelong Learning Division, Cultural and Sports Bureau, Fukushima Prefectural Government

2-16 Sugitsuma-cho, Fukushima City 960-8670 JAPAN

Phone: +81-24-521-7404 FAX: +81-24-521-5677

E-mail: shougaigakushuu@pref.fukushima.lg.jp

※Survey Deadline:
December 23, 2024

Submit your survey here: 